

Dive into ZOOMER[®]...

Meet the Zoomers. Canada's most powerful audience.

Zoomers are Canadians who are 45+. There are 16.2 million of them. They control 66% of the nation's wealth, and account for more than 54% of consumer spending. There's only one magazine focused exclusively on them – on their lifestyle, their needs, their interests.

Us.
Zoomer Magazine.
Delivering Canada's most powerful audience.

Has your marketing been hit by a power failure?

Look at this picture. The two people at the head of the table – Zoomers – have most of the power in the marketplace.

In category after category, they contribute more actual purchasers than any other age group – and in most cases, more than all other age groups combined.

Yet the younger people receive more targeted ad dollars. Huh? Does this make sense?

So are we saying that those good-looking younger folks in this picture don't deserve a seat at the marketing table at all?

Of course not.

Marketers should – and do – pursue customers wherever they are to be found. But the facts say that some of those marketing dollars could be profitably redistributed. Plugged into a better power source, let's say.

Fortunately, there's a very easy and efficient way to make that happen.

OK, I'm intrigued. But before I take the plunge, do you have specifics about all this spending power?

Of course we do. The more specifics you want, the better for our case – that's how overwhelming the numbers are.

For some categories, like health and travel, you probably already know that Zoomers dominate. For other categories, you might be in for a surprise.

So let's get started.

AUTO

Time for some power steering?

In the past 12 months, 7.5 million Canadian purchased or leased a new vehicle. 3.8 million of them were Zoomers – more than all other age groups combined. By contrast, Millennials contributed only 2.2 million buyers.

Zooming in on the Zoomer Magazine audience, the power trip continues. 333,000 of them bought or purchased a vehicle in the past 12 months, and more than half spent $40,000 or more.

If you're not including the age group that contributes by far the most actual buyers, your marketing plan is probably just driving around in circles. Connect to where the power is – the Zoomers.

Other factoids you should know:

- 7 million Zoomers, including 620,000 readers of Zoomer Magazine – paid cash the last time they acquired a vehicle.
- Zoomers love to drive. Of the 7 million Canadians who drove 15,000 km or more in the past 12 months, 3.9 million – or almost 60% – are Zoomers. By contrast, only 1.7 million Millennials drove this much.

- 6 million Canadians say they try to keep up with the latest in automotive technology. Of these, 3.3 million – or 55% – are Zoomers. Who says they're not tech-savvy?

TRAVEL

Where's the Promised Land? We've got the map.

It's old news that Zoomers totally dominate the travel market. Of the 10 million Canadians who traveled on vacation outside of Canada in the past 12 months, Zoomers accounted for 6.3 million – or nearly 60% of the total.

But Zoomers don't just want to travel, they want to travel differently – new places, new experiences, new learning. They'll spend – big – to explore and experiment, and they're hungry for information that will help them. That's why you need a platform that keeps them involved and engaged – like Zoomer Magazine.

Some other factoids you'll find interesting:

■ 2.6 million Zoomers spent $3,000 or more on their most recent vacation trip outside of Canada. That's 60% of all Canadians who spent that much.

■ 2.2 million Zoomers, representing 59% of the Canadian total, stayed at a luxury hotel in the past 12 months.

■ 2.6 million Zoomers, representing 63% of the Canadian total, went on a cruise in the past 3 years.

■ 4 million Zoomers say they prefer to take holidays off the beaten track, to destinations they haven't seen before. That's more than all other age groups combined.

HOME

The power is always on.

They're downsizing... right? Becoming empty nesters. No need to spend a lot of money around the home.

A total myth.

Zoomers dominate housing and home improvement. They own more homes than all the other age groups put together, own more mortgage-free homes than all the other age groups put together, and in category after category – from furniture to appliances and electronics to home renovation – they account for more actual buyers than all other age groups put together.

And Zoomer Magazine readers, in particular, represent the “cream of the cream” of all this consumer demand.

If you market anything related to the home, Zoomers are definitely the most powerful audience.

Some factoids you should know:

■ 492,000 Zoomer readers live in a home worth $500,000 or more.

■ 231,000 readers have spent $10,000 or more on home renovation in the past 2 years.

■ 166,000 readers

also own a vacation home.

■ 592,000 readers bought furniture or home accessories in the past 12 months.

BEAUTY & STYLE

For Zoomers, spending is always in fashion.

If there's one segment of the marketing world that actively pursues "younger" consumers, it's beauty and fashion. Nothing wrong with that – except that Zoomers contribute more actual buyers than any other age group.

Whether your marketing skin care and beauty products, or apparel, or jewelry and accessories, ignoring Zoomers means you're not talking to hundreds of thousands of shoppers... and leaving millions of dollars on the table.

Could your marketing strategy use a makeover?

Want specifics? Here are some factoids to consider:

- 2.8 million Zoomers bought makeup and cosmetics in the past 30 days – more than all other age groups combined.
- 512,000 Zoomers spent $100 or more on makeup and cosmetics in the past

- 30 days – that's over 60% of all Canadians who spent that much.
- 5.6 million Zoomers bought face and body skincare products in the past 30 days – again, more than all other age groups combined.
- 938,000 Zoomers spent $50 or more on skincare products

- in the past 30 days – one more time, more than all other age groups combined.
- 575,000 Zoomers spent $1,000 or more on women's apparel in the past 12 months – yet again, more than all other age groups combined.

HEALTH & WELLNESS

Empowered to stay healthy.

It's not news that Zoomers have most of the spending power in the health and wellness category, accounting for close to 80% of consumer spending. What's interesting is the underlying reason. Zoomers feel empowered to take control of their own health. This means they're information junkies (in print as well as online) for news and ideas that can help. They're an engaged and attentive audience for your story... and we can help deliver it.

Are you underspending against Canada's most powerful audience?

Some healthy information for you to consider:

- 6.3 million Zoomers say they always check the nutritional content of the food they eat.
- 6.2 million say they think their diet is healthy.

- 7.3 million say regular exercise is an important part of their life.
- 2.5 million are members of a fitness club.

- 564,000 visited a health information website daily over the past month, and 2.8 million visited a health site weekly.

MONEY

Here's what powers all this spending.

To have all this spending power, you need financial power. And on this subject, Zoomers clearly control the marketplace. No matter how you measure it – net worth, use of financial services, credit cards – Zoomers come out on top.

They own more, earn more on their investments, and use more financial services, than all other age groups combined.

As with health and wellness, Zoomers are hungry for information on how to manage their finances. 1.2 million (including 107,000 of our readers) visited a financial website daily over the past month, and 2.2 million (including 194,000 readers) visited a financial site weekly. They're eager to hear your story. We're the perfect place to tell it.

Follow the money:

■ 5.8 million Zoomers have total savings and investments (excluding their home) of $100,000 or more. This represents 65% of all Canadians who have that much. This includes 512,000 Zoomer readers who are in that elite league.

■ 6.9 million Zoomers (including 587,000 Zoomer Magazine readers) spend over $1,000 a month on their credit cards.

■ 5.8 million Zoomers (including 480,000 readers) used the services of a financial planner in the past 12 months.

■ 1.3 million Zoomers (including 113,000 readers) traded investments online in the past 6 months – more than all other age groups combined. Who says they're not tech-savvy?

It all comes down to this: Zoomers feel empowered.

Zoomers see themselves as active, engaged, and ready to re-write the rules. They feel empowered to do new things, learn new things, and continue to change their lives for the better. This makes them an attentive audience, consciously and deliberately seeking out information that can help. Now add their financial power and their propensity to spend, and you have the ideal audience – and we're the most efficient way to reach them.

They're eager. They're curious. They want to hear your story. They have the money. They're ready to spend it.

Canada's most powerful audience. Our audience.

Check these factoids. Do these sound like "old" people?

■ 13.3 million Zoomers (including 1.2 million of our readers) say they think it's important to continue learning new things throughout life.

■ 5.2 million Zoomers (including 496,000 readers) say they want to pursue a life of challenge, novelty, and change.

■ 6.4 million Zoomers (including 565,000 readers) say they try to keep up with all the latest developments in technology.

■ 4.7 million Zoomers (including 476,000 readers) say they have a keen sense of adventure.
